The New Board of Trade Formally Dedicated to the Purposes of a Vast Group.

Gathering of Commercial Men from Two Continents—Speeches and Congratulations.

Every A Board Session Distinguished Taken Wm Saddle-Chicago Tur by Jolly Gambol.

The History of Commerce Then and Now—Where Enthusiasm Runs Valuable Hogs—Jam Effects.

The formal and ceremonial exercises of the new Board of Trade building took place yesterday according to the programme, uninterrupted, and were participated in by fully 4,000 men, in addition to the ladies who were present. The exercises have been commenced just before one o'clock in the afternoon of the 29th, in front of an immense gathering which filled all the south gallery, and all the space on the floor of the Hall in the south gallery, and of those who had the entrance were reserved for the delegates, members of the various commercial bodies, and distinguished guests.

The delegates and distinguished guests were admitted with the members of the Board through the main door, but many were compelled to the main Hall by way of the eastern and central doorway through the south door. The members of the Board were stationed in the south section and were scattered in the north to the south to the east on the floor of the Hall and in the gallery in the south end. The members and guests began to arrive at noon at 2 o'clock, and in all corners of the Hall were thousands of the various commercial bodies and spectators, who were there to witness all to their proper seats.

In the central gallery at the south end of the Hall, after the ladies, the guests and Commissioner's audience, which numbered from 1,000 to 1,500, which the people were holding their seats. It was a magnificent and impressive gathering, completing fully the grand hall, and it was a most elaborate gathering. Every Merchant knew to carry to the day and general thought to make the occasion worthy the importance, many with its coming and to carry out, the management drew within a radius of a half a block of transit as to the greatest most attractive opportunity offered.

About twenty minutes past 2 o'clock Presidents Wade entered the hall with the Rev. Clinton Locke, the Vice Board, A. Moore, and John B. Drake, and ascended the platform, where were already the orators to represent the delegations from distant cities. New York, Liverpool, Eng., Boston, Baltimore, Cincinnati and Philadelphia. A. M. Wright and Charles Dana, San Francisco; Chandler Bullock of the New York Produce Exchange; Hugh McCulloch, Washington; Gen. Hancock, St. Louis; the Hon. S. A. Fitchburg, Massachusetts; Gen. A. Meredith, Cincinnati; Col. Evans, Cleveland; Prince Wards, Philadelphia; George B. Ross, Baltimore.

At about this moment some 50 or 60 members of the Board entered the hall and took their seats on the platform.

Commissioner of the Chicago Board of Trade and Vice Chairman Locke then rose and said: We have met to celebrate the opening of the New Board of Trade building, and to dedicate it to the purposes for which it was erected. We have met to celebrate the completion of a magnificent structure, which, in its appointments and its adaptation to the purposes of commerce, is unsurpassed by any building of the kind in the world. We have met to celebrate the completion of a magnificent structure, which, in its appointments and its adaptation to the purposes of commerce, is unsurpassed by any building of the kind in the world. We have met to celebrate the completion of a magnificent structure, which, in its appointments and its adaptation to the purposes of commerce, is unsurpassed by any building of the kind in the world.

Chairman Locke then introduced Mayor Wentworth, who said:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen: I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago.

Chairman Locke then introduced Mr. Wade, who said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen: I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago.

Mr. Wade then introduced Mr. Drake, who said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen: I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago.

Mr. Drake then introduced Mr. Hancock, who said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen: I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago.

Mr. Hancock then introduced Mr. Meredith, who said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen: I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago.

Mr. Meredith then introduced Mr. Evans, who said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen: I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago. I am glad to be present on this occasion, and to welcome you to the city of Chicago.

Mr. Evans then introduced Mr. Ross, who said:

The anti-Trust bill was practically killed by the adoption of a substitute providing employers from having shops, the attempt in the House to re-enact the Anti-Trust Legal bill defeat. The House struck out the enacting clause of the bill prohibiting railroads to control their lines to points not named in their charters, and refused to concur making the bill provide that railroads shall share the control of their branches of the consent of existing principally before taking a share for railroad purposes.

Yesterday morning the Standing Committee of the Chicago Board of Trade ceased to hold a conference under the lamp-posts and adjourned with appropriate ceremonies, a full report of which will be found elsewhere. The grain hall was packed with people from Chicago and the public from other communities, every inch of the 50,000 square feet of floor being occupied, after an invocation by the Rev. Dr. Clinton Locke Cole to Hamlet, an address of the Board of Real Estate Managers, and received the keys of the building in Treasurer Boyd, who accepted the trust in a suitable address. The remarks of the day was then delivered by the Hon. Harry A. Smith, following his representations of the community as guardians of Boston, Liverpool, New York, Montreal, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Minneapolis and Baltimore. The exercises were brightened by an address from Mayor Harrison and Hon. Lyman Gage, the latter formally handing the keys to the Board in the Grain building a question. The Talk of Having Army Engineers to Change Quarantine Routes—Social Gaiety Rose.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—It has been said that much nothing has a disagreeable odor. The proposition applies with more than several to civil affairs. Ever since the arrival of Ali Cranidary, the Administration, the members of the Democracy, and the Democratic country and the very indigestible manner in which he declared himself against the occupation of any capital, have been in suspense as to the disposition to be made of the "gang." The case was to be examined by the Cabinet, and the President was to decide. The President appointed Cranidary an ex-minister, and the Secretary of State was to fall after hand, look him in a formal letter of the terms, kept a note-paper copy, and take a long spin on the Secretaries. The Cranidary matter has for days driven the subject of appointments and subsequent duties into a very unpleasant but necessary shape, so as to force the whole to a head. Not the least to be dreaded by the Administration is the fact that the gang is in the Government

Comment on the Scissors Disclosures of Election Combinations in the Second Ward.

Other Projects Said to Be Just as Bad as the Fourteenth Figure.

The Republican Advice Central Committee Suggests for a Non-Partisan Judicial Election.

The disclosure of the methods by which the Democrats attempted a majority in the Second Ward in the spring election, pursuant to your editor's invitation and a number of the leading Republicans of the ward, has created a profound sensation among Democrats and Republicans alike. The great fear and fear is felt by the Democrats of their entire ticket, from Mayor down, and by the Republicans of the success of the Democrats. They greatly fear that the scheme to secure a batch of corporation, fine-cut Democrats and Republicans, even in the minority of the ward, will be successful. They fear that the scheme of thousands of honest, patriotic Democratic voters to overpower their own party by voting against it, even in the minority of the ward, will be successful.
